Game Card A

How to Play: Cross off the things you SEE in a horror film.
Compete with friends (together or apart). May take 1-3 films.
Compete using same Game Card (all A) or different cards (A & B).

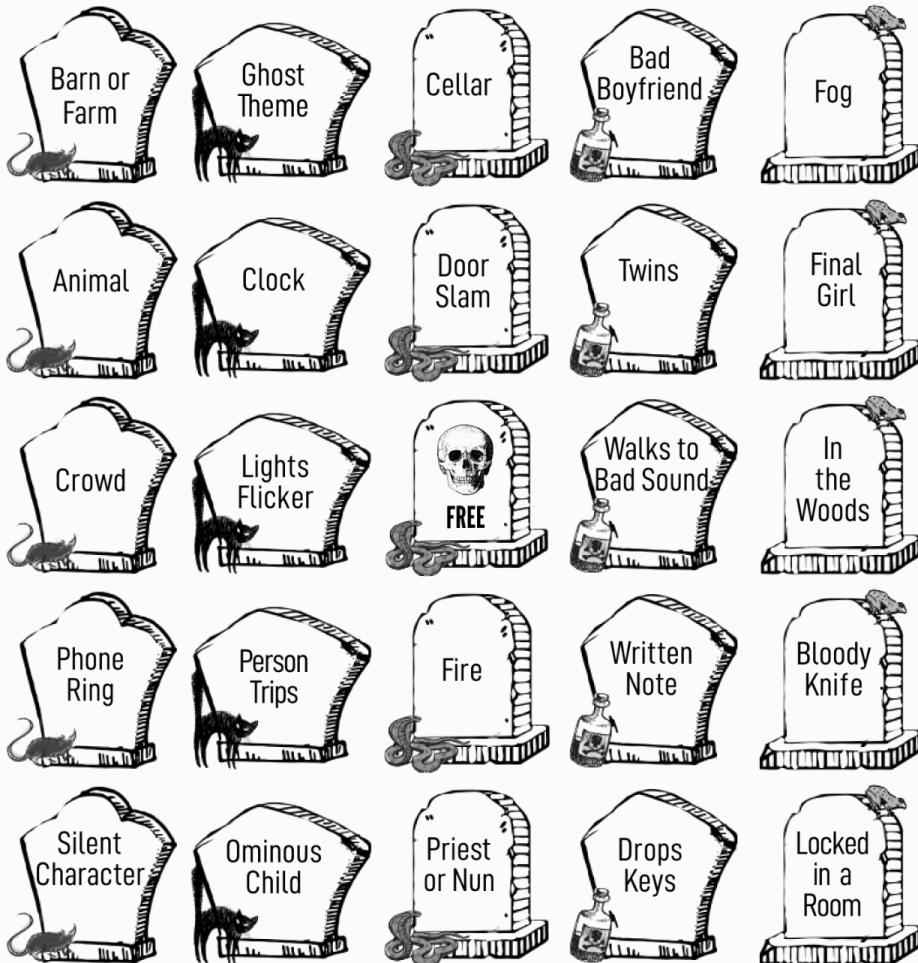

Variations:

Easier: Be the first to cross off 5 in a row for BINGO!

Moderate: First to cross off every headstone on the card WINS!

Challenge: Each player competes watching different films. Choose films you've never seen. Consider restricting film choices to non-US horror, pre-1970's horror, or all by a certain director.

Game Card B

How to Play: Cross off the things you SEE in a horror film.

Play for Position

(on the high score board)

The game system that Ted brings to counselor training is the Microvision - the first handheld game console that used interchangeable cartridges.

Scan the QR code or visit milfordhorror.com/microvision to simulate playing Block Buster on a Microvision and see if your high score is good enough to make the leaderboard.

Made in Connecticut

After filming the original Friday the 13th in Hardwick NJ, production moved to CT for Part 2. Filming locations included Kent, New Preston, Torrington, and Waterbury.

Check out Then & Now Movie Locations for a rundown of the locations and what has become of them in the years since filming.

Mad Libs

Ask someone else to give words for the blanks without knowing where they fit, and then read them the resulting scene.

Prompts are in parentheses: e.g. (noun) cat.

If a prompt is repeated, just repeat the original response for each occurrence:
e.g. say the first answer for (name #1) every time you read (name #1) again.

(name #1) _____ and

(name #2) _____ look at each other

(adverb) _____. The day of being bossed around by Paul is over, so they run off to (place) _____

to get some alone time. Little do they know, Jason is watching them through that one hole in his head-sack.

(name #1) hurries back to the camp to grab a (noun #1) _____.

Alone, (name #2) hears a mysterious sound and nervously investigates. It was just a (noun #2) _____.

Relief is brief. Jason pops out with a

(pointy object) _____ and stabs them in the (body part) _____.
